FOURTH EASTER SUNDAY – 21 April 2024

Good Shepherd Sunday

Dear Parishioners,

On the Good Shepherd Sunday and the World Day of Prayer for Vocations, we are called to contemplate the enduring image of Jesus as the Good Shepherd. This depiction, embodying love, and sacrifice, lies at the core of our Christian faith. Jesus, our Shepherd, pledges to lead and shield us, His flock, from every peril, hardship, and sorrow. He proclaimed the ultimate gesture of love, affirming, "I am the good shepherd. The good shepherd lays down his life for the sheep" (John 10:11).

Jesus lived this promise by sacrificing His life for our sins, thereby defeating death, and offering us a share in eternal life with Him. On this day, let's deeply consider the magnitude of His sacrifice and the infinite love He holds for each of us. It's a love that not only invites us to receive but also to practice the same selfless love in our daily lives.

In observing the World Day of Prayer for Vocations, we earnestly pray for those discerning their vocations, be it to priesthood, religious life, or lay ministry. May they discern the voice of the Good Shepherd in their lives, and may their hearts be open to embracing His call, whatever it may entail.

Moreover, let's use this occasion to attentively listen for the voice of the Risen Lord in our lives, allowing Him to guide us to the pastures of salvation. May we place our trust in His guidance, walk in His ways, and spread His love to others. This day serves as a reminder to be grateful for and inspired by those who answer God's call, contributing to a more loving, just, and peaceful world.

For the 61st World Day of Prayer for Vocations, Pope Francis in His Message honours the commitment of parents, justice-seeking workers, consecrated people, and priests, all of whom enrich our community with love, solidarity, and spiritual nourishment.

By recognizing and cultivating our gifts, we become emissaries of love, acceptance, beauty, and peace. In this Easter season, let the Good Shepherd's example fuel our faith, joy, and hope, inviting Christ's peace into our hearts.

BACKGROUND ON THE GOSPEL READING

The Good Shepherd Sunday features Gospel readings from John 10. This chapter follows Jesus' healing of a blind man and the ensuing rejection by Jewish leaders, prompting Jesus to declare himself the Good Shepherd in contrast to the Pharisees' leadership.

He likens his relationship with his followers to that of a shepherd to his sheep, emphasizing a loving bond rather than mere duty. Jesus' self-sacrifice and criticism of the Pharisees highlight his teachings on leadership and love. Additionally, this passage reflects on Christian unity and inclusivity, suggesting a broader message of our faith under one shepherd, Jesus, in line with the Gospel's focus on the intimate unity between Jesus and God.

FAMILY CONNECTION

The Good Shepherd makes sacrifices for the sheep not because it is required, but because it is a choice. That sounds a lot like parenting and the dynamics of a healthy family life. Parents choose to make sacrifices for their children out of love, not obligation. Christian parents' model and invite their children to choose to make sacrifices for other family members and for other people, acting out of love rather than obligation. When you gather as a family, invite each family member to consider the attitude that permeates their participation in family life.

Read any of the following: Do we do family chores cheerfully and without having to be asked multiple times? Do we gladly share with others? Do we willingly contribute to the family good when asked? Read aloud today's Gospel, John 10:11-18. Discuss together how the example of the Good Shepherd might inspire your family life. Invite each family member to make a renewed commitment to one action/attitude to focus on in the upcoming week that show that we will choose to follow the example of the Good Shepherd.

Pray together that we will be able to honour our commitment.

...AND SO, YOU WILL BETTER YOUR LIFE AND SET OUT ALONG WAYS OF PRAYER AND OF LOVE

"I will only stir your memory, so that some thought will arise and strike you; and so, you will better your life and set out along ways of prayer and of Love. And in the end, you will be a more worthy soul."

The Way, Saint Josemaría Escrivá

To truly live and act as a child of God amidst the world involves a journey that encompasses personal character development, prayer, work, virtue, and apostolate. Each aspect is interlinked, creating a whole approach to embodying one's faith in daily life.

PERSONAL CHARACTER

The foundation of a Christian life is personal character, marked by integrity, humility, and love. It begins with a deep internalization of one's identity as a beloved child of God, reflecting His love in interactions with others.

Personal character is shaped by the fruits of the Spirit: love, joy, peace, patience, kindness, goodness, faithfulness, gentleness, and self-control.

Developing these traits allows one to mirror Christ in everyday situations, setting the stage for a life lived in accordance with God's will.

Developing personal character in a Christian context, particularly as influenced by the teachings of Saint Josemaría Escrivá, involves an integrated approach that integrates faith deeply into the fabric of one's life.

It is about embodying virtues that reflect the character of Christ and actively engaging in practices that foster spiritual growth and moral integrity.

61ST WORLD DAY OF PRAYER FOR VOCATIONS

MESSAGE OF POPE FRANCIS

CALLED TO SOW SEEDS OF HOPE AND TO BUILD PEACE

21 APRIL 2024

Dear brothers and sisters!

Each year, the World Day of Prayer for Vocations invites us to reflect on the precious gift of the Lord's call to each of us, as members of his faithful pilgrim people, to participate in his loving plan and to embody the beauty of the Gospel in different states of life. Hearing that divine call, which is far from being an imposed duty – even in the name of a religious ideal – is the surest way for us to fulfil our deepest desire for happiness. Our life finds fulfilment when we discover who we are, what our gifts are, where we can make them bear fruit, and what path we can follow in order to become signs and instruments of love, generous acceptance, beauty and peace, wherever we find ourselves.

This Day, then, is always a good occasion to recall with gratitude to the Lord the faithful, persevering and frequently hidden efforts of all those who have responded to a call that embraces their entire existence. I think of mothers and fathers who do not think first of themselves or follow fleeting fads of the moment but shape their lives through relationships marked by love and graciousness, openness to the gift of life and commitment to their children and their growth in maturity. I think of all those who carry out their work in a spirit of cooperation with others, and those who strive in various ways to build a more just world, a more solidary economy, a more equitable social policy, and a more humane society. In a word, of all those men and women of good will who devote their lives to working for the common good. think too of all those consecrated men and women who offer their lives to the Lord in the silence of prayer and in apostolic activity, sometimes on the fringes of society, tirelessly and creatively exercising their charism by serving those around them. And I think of all those who have accepted God's call to the ordained priesthood, devoting themselves to the preaching of the Gospel, breaking open their own lives, together with the bread of the Eucharist, for their brothers and sisters, sowing seeds of hope and revealing to all the beauty of God's kingdom. To young people, and especially those who feel distant or uncertain about the Church, I want to say this: Let Jesus draw you to himself; bring him your important questions by reading the Gospels; let him challenge you by his presence, which always provokes in us a healthy crisis. More than anyone else, Jesus respects our freedom. He does not impose but proposes. Make room for him and you will find the way to happiness by following him. And should he ask it of you, by giving yourself completely to him.

A PEOPLE ON THE MOVE. The polyphony of diverse charisms and vocations that the Christian community recognizes and accompanies helps us to appreciate more fully what it means to be Christians. As God's people in this world, guided by his Holy Spirit, and as living stones in the Body of Christ, we come to realize that we are members of a great family, children of the Father and brothers and sisters of one another. We are not self-enclosed islands but parts of a greater whole. In this sense, the World Day of Prayer for Vocations has a synodal character: amid the variety of our charisms, we are called to listen to one another and to journey together in order to acknowledge them and to discern where the Spirit is leading us for the benefit of all. At this point in time, then, our common journey is bringing us to the Jubilee Year of 2025. Let us travel as pilgrims of hope towards the Holy Year, for by discovering our own vocation and its place amid the different gifts bestowed by the Spirit, we can become for our world messengers and witnesses of Jesus' dream of a single human family, united in God's love and in the bond of charity, cooperation and fraternity. This Day is dedicated in a particular way to imploring from the Father the gift of holy vocations for the building up of his Kingdom: "Ask the Lord of the harvest to send out labourers into his harvest" (Lk 10:2). Prayer – as we all know – is more about listening to God than about talking to him. The Lord speaks to our heart, and he wants to find it open, sincere and generous. His Word became flesh in Jesus Christ, who reveals to us the entire will of the Father. In this present year, devoted to prayer and preparation for the Jubilee, all of us are called to rediscover the inestimable blessing of our ability to enter into heartfelt dialogue with the Lord and thus become pilgrims of hope. For "prayer is the first strength of hope. You pray and hope grows, it moves forward. I would say that prayer opens the door to hope. Hope is there, but by my prayer I open the door" (Catechesis, 20 May 2020).

PILGRIMS OF HOPE AND BUILDERS OF PEACE. Yet what does it mean to be pilgrims? Those who go on pilgrimage seek above all to keep their eyes fixed on the goal, to keep it always in their mind and heart. To achieve that goal, however, they need to concentrate on every step, which means travelling light, getting rid of what weighs them down, carrying only the essentials and striving daily to set aside all weariness, fear, uncertainty and hesitation. Being a pilgrim means setting out each day, beginning ever anew, rediscovering the enthusiasm and strength needed to pursue the various stages of a journey that, however tiring and difficult, always opens before our eyes new horizons and previously unknown vistas. This is the ultimate meaning of our Christian pilgrimage: we set out on a journey to discover the love of God and at the same time to discover ourselves, thanks to an interior journey nourished by our relationships with others. We are pilgrims because we have been called: called to love God and to love one another. Our pilgrimage on this earth is far from a pointless journey or aimless wandering; on the contrary, each day, by responding to God's call, we try to take every step needed to advance towards a new world where people can live in peace, justice, and love. We are pilgrims of hope because we are pressing forward towards a better future, committed at every step to bringing it about. This is, in the end, the goal of every vocation: to become men and women of hope. As individuals and as communities, amid the variety of charisms and ministries, all of us are called to embody and communicate the Gospel message of hope in a world marked by epochal challenges. These include the baneful spectre of a third world war fought piecemeal; the flood of migrants fleeing their homelands in search of a better future; the burgeoning numbers of the poor; the threat of irreversibly compromising the health of our planet. To say nothing of all the difficulties we encounter each day, which at times risk plunging us into resignation or defeatism. In our day, then, it is decisive that we Christians cultivate a gaze full of hope and work fruitfully in response to the vocation we have received, in service to God's kingdom of love, justice and peace. This hope – Saint Paul tells us – "does not disappoint" (Rom 5:5), since it is born of the Lord's promise that he will remain always with us and include us in the work of redemption that he wants to accomplish in the heart of each individual and in the "heart" of all creation. This hope finds its propulsive force in Christ's resurrection, which "contains a vital power which has permeated this world. Where all seems to be dead, signs of the resurrection suddenly spring up. It is an irresistible force. Often it seems that God does not exist: all around us, we see persistent injustice, evil, indifference and cruelty. But it is also true that in the midst of darkness something new always springs to life and sooner or later produces fruit" (Evangelii Gaudium, 276). Again, the Apostle Paul tells us that, "in hope we were saved" (Rom 8:24). The redemption accomplished in the paschal mystery is a source of hope, a sure and trustworthy hope, thanks to which we can face the challenges of the present. To be pilgrims of hope and builders of peace, then, means to base our lives on the rock of Christ's resurrection, knowing that every effort made in the vocation that we have embraced and seek to live out, will never be in vain. Failures and obstacles may arise along the way, but the seeds of goodness we sow are quietly growing and nothing can separate us from the final goal: our encounter with Christ and the joy of living for eternity in fraternal love. This ultimate calling is one that we must anticipate daily: even now our loving relationship with God and our brothers and sisters is beginning to bring about God's dream of unity, peace and fraternity. May no one feel excluded from this calling! Each of us in our own small way, in our particular state of life, can, with the help of the Spirit, be a Sower of seeds of hope and peace.

THE COURAGE TO COMMIT. In this light, I would say once more, as I did at World Youth Day in Lisbon: "Rise up!" Let us awaken from sleep, let us leave indifference world and us open the doors of the prison in which we so often enclose ourselves, so that each of us can discover his or her proper vocation in the Church and in the world, and become a pilgrim of hope and a builder of peace! Let us be passionate about life and commit ourselves to caring lovingly for those around us, in every place where we live.

Let me say it again: "Have the courage to commit!" Father Oreste Benzi, a tireless apostle of charity, ever on the side of the poor and the defenceless, used to say that no one is so poor as to have nothing to give, and no one is so rich as not to need something to receive.

Let us rise up, then, and set out as pilgrims of hope, so that, as Mary was for Elizabeth, we too can be messengers of joy, sources of new life and artisans of fraternity and peace.
